Mrs. Wilson Stafford Passes Away In Calgary

One of Crossfield's first telephone operators and loved old-timer, Mrs. Wilson Stafford, passed away on Monday, May 8.

Stork Club Members Meet for Bridge

CROSSFIELD—The Stork Club members met for bridge at the home of Mrs. Doris McDonald. A tasty lunch was enjoyed and honours at cards went to Wilda Charney and Irene Wylie.

Mr. and Mrs. Mansell, Sr., evacuees from Fort Garry, a suburb of Winnipeg, are enjoying a temporary home with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mansell. Their home, as yet, is not damaged but the situation is serious enough for officials to order it evacuated.

Vivian Clarke (Mrs. Doch) and her two boys, are staying with parents at Stettler, after being forced from Winnipeg flood area. Vivian is a former student here and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Murdoch of Stettler.

CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION

In the Anglican Church on Sunday, May 14, at 11 a.m. service, Rev. A. B. Lee performed baptismal ceremonies for three children, namely, Sharon Lea and Kenneth Hugh, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Monte Wigle; and Lois Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson.

Rhonda Fleming

Glamorous, amorous Rhonda Fleming (they say she has a sister even prettier), co-stars with Bob Hope in Paramount's new comedy, "The Great Lover," now making the rounds of the nation's film houses.

ALAN LADD's first big hit was "This Gun For Hire," now seen in "Capt. Carr, U.S.A."

Gala Bridal Shower Honors Eileen May

CROSSFIELD.—Complimenting Miss Eileen May of Crossfield, whose marriage to be an event on May 23. Mrs. H. Mumby and Mrs. V. Law convened and were ably assisted by the members of the Anglican Guild at a miscellaneous shower in the United Church parlor, Wednesday, May 10. The bridal chair was placed immediately under a gay cluster of silver wedding bells from which pastel streamers cascaded to form a pleasing setting.

Eileen was assisted by Mrs. Walter Wilson in unloading a fantastic but well filled wagon, which was drawn in by Darlene Van Marion, over a well worn trail, before it had performed its duty in carrying all the beautiful gifts of which Eileen bespoke a heart-felt thanks.

During the intermission before lunch little Darlene Van Marion, accompanied by her mother on the piano, played a suitable selection on her violin, which was much appreciated. The lunch was a work of art and certainly very enjoyable to the large crowd who had assembled to bring their gifts and wish the happy couple much happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zanni is another of Crossfield's newlyweds. Mrs. Zanni came from Italy recently.

Twins Die As Separation Attempt Fails

Operation to separate Siamese twins Brenda and Beverley Townsend failed in Edmonton Sunday. Unexpected complications were given as reasons for the failure. The children, seen here with their 22-year-old father and 20-year-old mother, were born last November 17 at Tofted. The twins were joined from the third rib to the navel by a common section three inches wide and seven inches deep. Doctors know the babies had common liver, but until the operation was under way they had no inkling that the twins shared common hearts.

CROSSFIELD.—Extensive damage was received to a 1948 Chevrolet car driven by Carl Brown, when a truck driven by John Tack hit it broadside at the crossing near the curling rink. Mr. Brown, who was in Crossfield to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Stafford, was proceeding south when the truck driven by Mr. Tack met it broadside at the intersection, whilst he was enroute west to his home. No one was injured.

At the close of the meeting a very delicious lunch was served.

Paper Backs Drive

Appeals For Funds To Aid Winnipeg In Plight

This newspaper has got behind the drive to aid the grief-stricken Winnipeg flood victims in their desperate plight. T. W. Pue, publisher of 33 Alberta weeklies, ordered the full resources of Community Publications thrown into the drive.

Riding herd of the tempestuous Red and Assiniboine rivers, battle-weary Winnipeggers are putting up a magnificent struggle against the rampaging waters.

But alone they will not be able to keep up the fight. Already the Winnipeg flood is a Canadian tragedy, from which the city may not recover for a generation.

Thursday, service organizations and the Chamber of Commerce held emergency meetings in Edmonton to discuss the tragic Winnipeg situation. Already this paper was preparing to embark on its own campaign, but when word was received of the multi-organization effort getting underway, it decided to throw its full resources behind the drive.

"The Winnipeg Flood Fund," joint effort of the service groups, Chamber of Commerce, and this newspaper is operating from the chamber offices in the McLeod building. The phone number is 22767.

President Don McKay, warmly commending the paper for its co-sponsorship of the drive, points out that all contributions should be sent to the Flood Fund, Chamber Offices, McLeod Bldg.

Due to the expected volume of contributions, receipts will not be sent unless the donor specifically requests them.

Friday morning this paper sent the following telegram to the mayor of Winnipeg:

"Community Publications of Alberta, publishers of 34 weekly newspapers including the South Edmonton Sun, expresses deepest sympathy to the citizens of Winnipeg in their desperate struggle against the floods, and wishes to inform His Worship that the full resources of Community Publications is being thrown behind a province-wide campaign to send funds and relief supplies to Manitoba."

(Sgd.) T. W. PUE.

All readers are urged to co-operate to the fullest in this campaign, to share in the terrific job of rebuilding Canada's fourth city.

Letters to the Editor

FREEDOM IN CANADA

Dear Sir—In reference to last week's article on religious persecution in Quebec, I must say that no one deplores more than we Catholics, the irresponsible demonstration recently in Shawinigan Falls against a gathering of Christian Brethren.

At the same time you must admit that the people of Quebec have reason to be aroused. Just a few days before the Shawinigan Falls affair a pamphlet was distributed around town saying that "Quebec's hate for God and Christ and Freedom still burns and still shames the nation . . . Catholic doctrine resembles pagan doctrine of ancient times."

The above is a Jehovah Witness pamphlet. The Brethren of Christ probably had nothing to do with it. However, the French names of these two sects are very similar. It is any wonder then, that when a hot-headed youth rushed out of the Christian Brethren meeting and told a milling crowd that the priests were being called pagans, "attempers flared? Mobs act first and think afterwards?"

The quickest way to arouse the anger and resentment of the Catholic Quebecer is to insult and criticize his God, his church, and his priests. Too many people are going far out of their way to do just that.

Midnapore, Alta. E. C. LINES.

NEVER FORGET

Dear Sir—Shame on any Canadian who conveniently forgets friends and relatives, disabled in either World War, sick and lonely in the Col. Mewburn Hospital. Or any military hospital. Don't forget that those men were heroes. They still are. Don't give them broken hearts to match their broken bodies.

South Edmonton Mrs. M. M.

UTILITARIAN

Dear Sir—This is to tell you that I am going to stop buying your rag if you don't stop publishing pictures of immigrants coming to Canada. Why doesn't your darn paper pay more attention to veterans who can't get a proper stake or even a shabby house to live in? We should have a law stopping immigrants until all our people are well housed, well clothed and well fed.

Lac la Biche Mrs. J. C.

POOCHES PREFERRED

Dear Sir—A recent letter writer to your paper seemed insulted because some hñmane people have dogs and pets and don't keep them caged up like circus animals. Here is a quotation for him to meditate on, by Mark Twain. It goes: "The more I see of men the better I like dogs."

AUGUSTUS M. SUTCLIFFE.

Edmonton.

WANTS NAMES

Dear Sir—I would like to make — and receive any comment — on the suggestion that any letter worthy of writing, and worthy of publication, should at least be worthy of the writer's signature.

ALICE B. NEWMAN.

Jasper Place.

SCRIPTURAL MEDITATIONS

By ANSLEY BLAIR

If we will but listen, God's created works will teach us precious lessons of obedience and trust. From the stars that in their trackless courses through space follow from age to age their appointed path, down to the minutest atom, the things of nature obey the Creator's will. And God cares for everything and sustains everything that he has created. He who upholds the unnumbered worlds throughout immensity, at the same time cares for the wants of the little brown sparrow that sings its humble song without fear. When men go forth to their daily toil, as when they engage in prayer; when they lie down at night, and when they rise in the morning; when the rich man feasts in his palace, or when the poor man gathers his children about the scanty board, each is tenderly watched by the heavenly Father. No tears are shed — not God does not notice. There is no smile that he does not mark.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Alberta's New Citizens

Elsewhere on this page there appears a letter from a reader regarding immigration from Europe to Alberta. The writer objects to bringing in new citizens while we face problems of housing and unemployment. He even threatens to quit reading our paper if we continue to publish pictures of these immigrants!

Now, frankly, no matter how much the eagle eyes of the front office hover over the circulation figures, we are not going to sacrifice our editorial principles for what we believe are unfounded complaints.

We contend that a sensible immigration policy is a necessary thing for Canada, and for Alberta. We have a great country to develop, and this requires a growing population. Our immigration policy is conducted on quite a selective basis, and although some immigrants do not turn out to be the best citizens, on the whole they make good. Moreover, in contrast to the method of settling immigrants in the pioneer days, today's policy educates these new citizens to our way of life.

Five Years of Confusion

Five years ago this week the military might of Germany was crushed on the field of battle, bringing to a close the desperate years of World War II.

With the end of the war, things, it was felt, were due to settle down. A brave, new world about which we had heard so much, was almost here.

Instead, time and events ushered in the most luridly confusing half decade of the 20th century.

Man set off an atom bomb with a crash that reverberated to the ends of the earth. Of a host of new and more cruel weapons this was the most ominous. But man, most dangerous of all species, continued to act with his usual greed, avarice, hate and conspiracy.

However, there has been the other side of the ledger. Tremendous industrial development is laying the groundwork for a higher living standard. Right here in Alberta the oil boom is creating new payrolls aplenty.

Television, new methods of fighting disease, the peacetime promise of atomic energy—all together pose the framework of a better way of life.

Yet people are not confident.

According to last week's Canadian Public Opinion survey, a majority of Canadians feel that war is inevitable within the next 25 years. They base their belief on the grounds that the U.N. will not succeed.

This is certainly not good. It is not good because it shows that the statesmen don't have the confidence of the people. The surest way to bring a catastrophe about is to be convinced that trouble will arise.

That trouble will arise.

Individual.

The next step in the process is to determine whether the test will be reasonably accurate in the examinations of apparently healthy persons. It is not necessary that the test be perfect, because if it manages to disclose some of the undiscovered cancers, it will cut down the death rate that much.

Sure Cure for Cancer

The fight against cancer is making progress, if we are to accept at face value the new blood test developed by four research workers, which, they assert, is 98.6 per cent accurate. There is a great need for the early discovery of a cancerous growth inside the human body. If a blood test will indicate cancer, there is the hope that prompt treatment will save the

High Handed Safety Council

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

One of the most brazen examples of high-handed domineering ever to raise its head in this province can be found in the activities of Alberta's Safety Council. This organization, which is nothing more than a private group, is currently forcing a safety campaign down the throats of Alberta's motorists, under the guise of government compulsion.

The Safety Council, with a blast of ballyhoo that would put Bailey and Barnum to shame, has asserted that its campaign has official government backing, and that it is compulsory for all motorists to have their car checked under threat of police enforcement.

But now deputy attorney general H. J. Wilson has revealed that this is not true.

"While the government is in sympathy with efforts to have all vehicles approved in a safe condition, it should be understood that there is no compulsion, no instructions were given to police at all in respect to the campaign," comments Mr. Wilson.

Now, this writer is fully in sympathy with the aims and ideals of the Safety Council, and is quite aware of the havoc that unsafe cars can create on our highways.

Yet this current caper is a funny way for a supposedly responsible organization to behave. To say the least it's high-handed. To get right to the point, it's a sheer mass of hypocrisy and false pretences.

BRUTAL JUSTICE

Some brutal stories come out of Quebec. The latest is that an 11-year-old boy has been released from a Quebec prison after serving an 18-month sentence on conviction of stealing a $20 bicycle.

It so happens that the federal Criminal Code is operative in Quebec, and the maximum penalty that can be imposed on any juvenile convicted of stealing an article valued under $25 is one of six months' imprisonment.

We wonder what manner of men would violate Canadian laws when they are the ones charged with enforcing them?

And why stop at sending an 11-year-old boy to jail for 18 months? Why not cause prison doors to swing open for a child of six or seven who picks up something and runs?

What disgusts this writer is that while no one but the little shaver's immediate family fought for his release, there is always a full quota of zealots of reform ready to block the sale of a sweepstakes ticket or an admission ticket at a Sunday ball game.

SMILES

NO BOTTLENECK

Little Charles has imbibed a great deal of the lore of his father, who is an efficiency expert. The other night his dad overheard him speaking his evening prayers, and was shocked at the breakneck speed with which the child was making known his petition.

"Don," he gently interrupted, "why don't you pray slower?"

"Oh, I couldn't do that!" the youngster rejoined. "Just think how many boy-hours and girl-hours would be wasted if I kept all the other children waiting!"

PEPPER COURSE

What do the ladies talk about while they sit under the dryer in the beauty parlor? Well, a beautician friend of ours has very strongly censured one of her clients for flouting by relating the following exchange which occurred the other day between two of his patrons:

Mrs. Benefield: "Does your cook ever give you any of her impertinence?"

Mrs. Lockard: "No, she charges me $30 a week for it!"

FALSE PRETENSE

Scene: A divorce court. The judge grumpily regards the husband, who is the complainant.

"Misrepresentation!" he barks. "Isn't that peculiar grounds for divorce? Explain yourself."

"Gladly, your Honor," the husband replies. "When I asked her to marry me, she said she was agreeable. She wasn't, judge!"

Noted Sport Writer Pans Former Bulletin Publisher

Albertans are still talking about the article by Toronto's noted newspaperman Jim Coleman in a recent issue of Maclean's magazine.

Coleman reveals why he quit the newspaper business, and he also has a few words to say about the policies of Ex-Edmonton Bulletin publisher Charles Campbell.

Coleman intimates that the Bulletin's main stock-in-trade used to be one of news fabrication.

For instance, he reveals how one ingenious reporter would write blood-curdling interviews with non-existent travellers who were supposed to have escaped from cannibalistic Indians in the Nahanni valley. To illustrate his stories the reporter would pick up some bum and take him over to Uncle Ben's Exchange on 101 street, where he would be photographed wearing suitable parka, mukluks and other clothing.

He also mentions the Bulletin's one-time night editor, late Mike Shoen, whose most notable contribution to the production of the daily newspaper was to arrive in the office about 5 a.m., pick up the entire night report of Canadian Press, and leave it into the nearest wastebasket.

Coleman doesn't forget to tell the story of the Bulletin's celebrated managing editor Billy DeGraves, who scooped the world on the rescue of an aerial expedition to the sub arctic, and wrote graphic on the spot accounts without ever leaving the offices of the Bulletin.

One item, which Coleman recalls as "pretty grand stuff" was a series of pulse-quickening stories about the "mad trapper" Albert Johnson, which were written by a reporter comfortably encoined in the Bulletin offices, who worked himself into the proper mood by arriving at the office clothed in parka, mukluks, and carrying a loaded musket.

But Coleman says that no one struggle to make both ends meet. The Bulletin had competent reporters who were living on $75 a month. One of the top hands received $100 a month, covered all the activities of the Social Credit legislature, wrote chamber music and conducted a string orchestra.

Coleman says one reporter who was fired for mopey and gawk solved his housing problem temporarily by passing out each night in the gentlemen's powder rooms of Jasper avenue.

But there are a couple of things Coleman neglects to mention. For instance Billy DeGraves, who, after all, was a grand old newspaperman, didn't get very far with the Bulletin after the war.

He was booted "upstairs" to an executive editorship slot, with good salary but not a thing to do. He died broken-hearted in Ottawa a few months ago.

And Coleman neglects to mention the time Bulletin publisher Charles Campbell went east, expecting to return as a member of Canada's Senate.

Before he went, he had a story written and type set on his appointment to the Upper House. Needless to say, it was never used.

Hard Luck Tale Clicks

MINNEAPOLIS.—Marcelus J. McMullen, charged with reckless driving, had a hard luck story that really was convincing.

This is what happened to McMullen the night he was arrested:

He had broken up with his girl; he had lost his job; he missed a turn on a slick road and damaged his car by hitting the curb and a tree; as his car was being towed into a garage, it was struck by another and wrecked.

Judge Leslie Anderson let him off lightly.

Horace Rollans Enters Edmonton Real Estate Business

Real estate dealer, newspaperman and bank clerk, a former resident of Viking, Alta., Horace Rollans has taken over Lee & Murdoch real estate and insurance firm. The business will be known as Rollans Real Estate, and is located at 10836 Whyte avenue.

For the last 28 years Mr. Rollans has been secretary-treasurer of the Viking Co-operative Creamery and the Viking Municipal Hospital District, at Viking. He also carried on a real estate business there, so is no newcomer to this field.

HORACE ROLLANS

Previous to going to Viking, Mr. Rollans, who was born in Ontario in 1896 and whose family moved to Alberta while he was quite young, worked on the old "Daily Capital" in Edmonton until it suspended publication. After leaving the newspaper business he worked for several banks in the province, until moving into his position as secretary-treasurer of the Viking Co-op Creamery.

Mr. Rollans was married in 1923 to Nina Wood of Tofted. Mrs. Rollans will reside in Viking until they dispose of their home there and will then move to South Edmonton.

T. W. Pue Asked To Judge Papers

Mr. T. W. Pue, head of Community Pub., has been asked by the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association to take part in the judging of various weekly papers for the organization's annual Better Newspaper Competition.

The request was received from W. McCartney, managing director of the association, which embraces about 500 weekly papers from coast to coast.

Mr. Pue took part in the judging of the papers of the organization's annual Better Newspaper Competition.

Mr. T. W. Pue, last year, and the repeat request was made, in the words of Mr. McCartney, "for the fine job" done in 1949.

This year the association will be holding its annual convention at St. Andrews, New Brunswick. Mr. Pue expects to attend the gathering, which will convene some time in September.

Last year's convention was held at Jasper, Alta.

Passenger trains in Canada could make faster time than they do but schedules are "padded" to allow for unforeseen delays.

Religion for Moderns

Modest Peasant Was Prophet of the Lord

Micah was a peasant living about twenty miles west of Jerusalem. He wrote in the last decades of the eighth century B.C. Like Amos and Hosea he denounced the hypocrisy and social evil of his day.

Our recent lessons have been most instructive. The words of these ancient prophets, spoken centuries ago, fit in our modern conditions with appalling propriety. Social evil continues under new ways, much along the same olden pathways.

The words of Micah stand along those of Amos, "Let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream," and Hosea's, "I desire goodness, not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings." These prophets may be "minor" in the space occupied in the scriptures but they are "major" in spiritual truths.

We know very little of Micah's life and surroundings. Isaiah, 2:2-4 may be a quotation from Micah's 4:1-3, or the reverse, as these prophets were contemporaries. Micah reveals some knowledge of world politics and may have seen armies passing his way, but he was more vitally concerned in the evils prevalent with individuals. Of himself he said: "I am full of power by the Spirit of Jehovah, and of judgment, and of might, to declare unto Jacob his transgression and to Israel his sin."

The Book denounces Israel, holds a promise to the remnant, predicts the captivities, announces the kingdom of peace, and the birthplace of the Messiah. It condemns the oppressors of the poor, the rulers who were corrupt and venal, the judges who made justice a sham and shame, and such evils.

"The Book insists on the leading themes of Amos, Hosea and Isaiah, the protests against the high places and their corrupt rites, against social wrongs, sanctioned by the ministers of religion," says Prof. W. H. Bennett.

"The teaching of Micah," says Dr. W. G. Ellmalle, "possesses remarkable equalities both in style and thought. His language is vigorous, graphic and varied. At times, he is emotional and pathetic, anon terse and trenchant, and again elevated and sublime, as the occasion and the subject demand. He does not quite command the grand style of Isaiah, but he is more sharply telling and direct. In width of survey and weight of movement he differs from his great contemporary, somewhat as a trib- righteousness differs from a statue of the people or a preacher of man of the first order."

Micah quotes Jehovah as challenging his people to "testify against me." It is an inspiring thought, followed by a recital of all Jehovah's goodnesses unto them. Modern folk might accept the same challenge. Even today the inquiring soul can look about and question wherein God has been "unkind." The imperfections and wrongs which exist are not of God's choice or manufacture—when He finished creation it was declared "good," but man has had it in his control from that day, and the inquiry should also be made as to what man has done to the world God made and put him into to enjoy and have dominion over.

Micah abhors false weights and measures. This is applied by Galus Glenn Atkins: "There are more kinds of weights than your grocer uses on his scales. There are honest work, false dealing, mutual weights of character, integrity, respect, spiritual weights, and intellectual weights. Whenever we falsify anything, whether by our words, or our deeds, or our relations with other people, we are using deceitful weights. Sly deeds are deceitful weights. A half truth throwing stones at the traders of is a deceitful weight. Let us stop Micah's time—till we have stopped putting our little apples at the bottom of the basket, and have made all our weights and measures honest before God."

The need for this is emphasized by Borden F. Browne: "One does not always find church members, or even ministers, particularly trustworthy in business, or delicately scrupulous in matters of veracity, or especially averse to underhand measures for carrying out their plans. This is not uncommonly due to hypocrisy, but it is at least partly due to the mistaken separation of religion and righteousness, to the fancy that religion is something which can be had or got, something the possession of which, like a talisman, distinguishes the marks him off as religious. There possessor from all others and is no such thing as having religion apart from righteous living; true religion in God's sight is nothing but righteous living in the love of man and God."

St. Laurent Calls For Faith In God

MONTREAL.—Prime Minister St. Laurent said here Sunday that he does not think the atom and the hydrogen bomb can destroy the world.

Speaking at the Loyola College's alumni communion breakfast, he said: "I do not believe that Providence made these discoveries for the destruction of mankind, but their use toward betterment."

However, he added the world needs a spiritual rebirth if man is to cope with the latest scientific discoveries and apply them to good use.

In these troublesome times, Mr. St. Laurent said, a spiritual rebirth is more required than the ingenuity of man. "We need faith by deeds. Genuine brotherhood cannot be achieved without faith in God."

Kissing Gets a Tryout For First Time In Japan

Four years after the lifting of the age old ban on kissing, the Japanese are still uncertain how they feel about the contact of lips as a form of affectionate salutation.

Most of the leading actresses insist on placing a tiny piece of gauze, which has been disinfected, over their mouths before permitting an actor to press his lips on theirs.

Only one star, Yoshiko Yamaguchi, permits what is called "kissing in the raw." Kinyo Tanaka "queen of the Japanese movies" has been kissed only once in the films and frankly says she hopes it will never happen again.

When screen kisses were first portrayed—this in May, 1946—audiences in the cities broke out into uncontrollable laughter. Those in the country towns were disgusted. "Ugh," exclaimed an old lady, "they are spitting in each others' mouths."

There has been considerable enlightenment about kissing since those days. Today when a scene is flashed on the screen youthful members of the feminine sex often lower their heads.

Although the act of occlusion is no longer a novelty on the screen and in the pages of the popular magazines, its public demonstration is still frowned on. Nowadays it is a common sight on Sundays to observe young people walking in the suburbs arm-in-arm. In pre-war times such a thing was simply not done. It is possible these youthful lovers kiss, but if they do, they are never observed in the act.

Kissing was strictly taboo in Japan before the surrender. Up to then the censors clipped out all kissing from important motion pictures. The audiences did not miss these scenes because many did not know what a kiss was, and most of those who did considered the act distasteful.

Japan is the only country in the world to ban the exhibition of Auguste Rodin's masterpiece, "The Kiss." This renowned sculpture was brought from Europe some twenty years ago. To the surprise and indignation of the French authorities who planned to place it in an exhibition of French works of art, the Japanese police prohibited its display. When diplomatic pressure was exerted, the guardians of the law went home.

As everybody knows, "The Kiss" shows a nude man and woman kissing. The nude part would be all right, the police said, so if a cloth were wrapped around the two heads, the work could be shown.

The Frenchmen threw their hands in the air and if the Japanese police could have understood what was being said, they probably would have censured that too. "The Kiss" was never shown publicly in this country.

As far as the average Japanese is concerned, Americans are the world's most ardent advocates of, and the greatest experts on, kissing. This is because it was under American aegis that the ban on kissing was lifted and also because an American was the first person ever to teach kissing in Japan—in public, that is.

The teacher was Ernest Herbert, United Press bureau manager here in Tokyo. He taught the bend-back technique which had its heyday in the silent film days. Whether it was because Ernie employed the wrong method or because his engagement was all too brief—he taught only one day—the fact remains that the Japanese have not succeeded yet in shaking off their centuries' old inhibition.

In railway stations, which would be about as likely a place as any for people to be seen kissing, one can watch all day and not notice a single instance of persons of any age or marital status kissing. Recently, repatriates from Soviet-held territories returned after years away from their wives and sweethearts and there was a lot of embracing on the railway station platforms—which was an unusual sight in Japan—but no kissing whatsoever.—Kimpel Sheba, Editor of the Nippon Times, TD Correspondent in Japan.

GOOD HEALTH for ALBERTANS

CHEAPER ON 'TIME'

A sunbath is one commodity that is cheaper on the installment plan. When you collect your suntan slowly you avoid the ugly, stinging pain of sunburn and the resultant peeling of dead skin. The first exposure should not exceed 10 to 20 minutes, depending on the strength of the sun. Once you've acquired a tan you can relax and enjoy yourself in the sun.

IMMUNIZATION FACTS

Immunization can protect your child's life against diphtheria and whooping cough. Every year children die in Canada from these diseases and almost without exception their lives could have been saved by immunization. This service is free at health clinics everywhere, is practically painless and absolutely safe. It is your responsibility to protect your children this safe, easy way.

FUNGUS INFECTION

The troublesome, irritating fungous infection of the feet commonly known as "athletes foot" is a common problem in many places where shower and dressing rooms are shared by more than a few people. The spread of this highly-contagious infection can often be controlled by regular disinfection of floors, provision of special footwear for use in the shower rooms, and the use of foot bath disinfectants or foot powders.

COOKING WITH CARE

Cooking with care is often the secret of success in getting the most food value from vegetables. They should be cooked in a small amount of boiling water with the lid on. If they are cooked too long or in too much water much of the food value will be lost. Vegetables taste and look better when they are cooked properly.

THE DENTIST AND YOU

Every child should make the acquaintance of the dentist at the age of about three years and visit him twice a year from that time. Regular dental care helps keep cavities at a minimum and helps eliminate needless pain and expense. The dentist is always willing to provide valuable advice on preventing new cavities, crooked teeth and gum diseases.

Veterans' Insurance Good For Another Nine Months

World War II veterans can apply for Veterans' Insurance for at least another nine months, and in some cases beyond that deadline, DVA district administrator J. Sutton announced last week in Calgary, commenting on the fact that many southern Alberta ex-servicemen seemed to think the timetable for application had expired.

Mr. Sutton explained that February 20, 1951, was the earliest deadline for the approval of applications. If, however, a veteran was released from the forces after February 20, 1945, he has six years from the date of discharge to get his application approved.

In southern Alberta 868 veterans have taken out policies amounting to $2,447,895. This type of insurance, ranging in amounts from $500 to $10,000, is available to former members of Canadian, Commonwealth and Empire armed forces as well as to certain classes of merchant seamen.

Because in most cases no medical examination is required, many veterans, who because of disabilities or other health conditions would be unable to purchase commercial life insurance, take advantage of the Veterans' Insurance Act to protect their families. Premiums, which may be paid in cash, out of pensions or from re-establishment credits, compare very favorably with the cost of similar policies issued by commercial companies.

Cash surrender values increase after the policy has been in force two years, but loans cannot be secured against it. All policies include a disability benefit at no extra premium.

Further information as to rates, method of payment and application may be obtained from the Department of Veterans Affairs Welfare Services Branch, 217 7th Ave. W., Calgary, Alta.

Murderer Too Mean To Die

By T. D. METZ

In fourteen years as warden of the Cook County Jail, Frank Sain was in charge of Chicago's most vicious killers, gangsters, gunmen, rapists and thieves. He presided while thirty-one of them went to their deaths in the electric chair. Sain was talking recently—after he had changed jobs to become superintendent of Chicago's Bridgeview City Prison—about the meanest prisoner he had had in all those fourteen years.

"He was a murderer named Chester Novak," Sain said, "Almost everybody has forgotten him, but I never will."

Back in 1925, Novak and a companion, Frank Gross, tried to rob

Novak jeered at his companion in crime, telling him:

"I got the best break, Gross. I'll go to hell in a hurry in the electric chair. You'll rot the rest of your life away in prison. The day'll come when you'll wish you were given the chair, too."

That was Novak's contrary way. He couldn't be a good enough sport to congratulate Gross. He had to try and make him miserable.

Novak settled down to await his date with the electric chair, Sain recalled, and there never was a more unpopular prisoner.

"The guards always try to do little favors for a condemned man," the former warden said. "They'll see that he has plenty of cigarettes, candy and reading material.

Five doctors, the number specified by law, stepped up to Novak's slumped figure in the chair and listened at his chest with stethoscopes. That is routine for pronouncing a man legally dead.

But Novak wasn't dead! The doctors reported his heart was beating!

"We got the doctors back away from the chair and electrocuted him all over again," Sain recalled. "The spectators didn't realize what had happened, and we of the jail staff didn't talk about it. There was no question, after the second time, but that he was dead."

Sain recalled that no friend or relative claimed Novak's body. He was taken to a grave in potter's field, wrapped in a winding sheet.

must have destroyed his brain and central nervous systems.

What the examining physicians heard through their stethoscopes, according to the consensus, was a muscular twitching around Novak's heart.

"I don't quite agree with them," Sain said, "I believe he was just too mean to die."

A Chicago prison warden who handled hundreds of thugs reveals a story of a ruthless murderer who had to be electrocuted twice.

Henry Mendelbaum and his wife, Belle, Damen and Pierce Avenues in Chicago.

Mendelbaum, his arms loaded with groceries, didn't get his hands up quickly enough. Novak shot him between the eyes.

The two robbers, Novak and Gross, were arrested after a few days, and both were convicted of murder in Mendelbaum's death. The jury let Gross off with 199 years in prison, but condemned Novak to die.

After the sentence, Sain recalled,

"It didn't work out that way with Novak. He'd snarl at anybody trying to be nice to him. He wouldn't clean up his cell and he wouldn't keep himself neat. He was a mess.

"He was almost bald, at the age of only thirty, and he had thin lips and slitted eyes. He looked ugly, and he was.

"The chaplain tried to talk to him, but it was no good. Novak cursed at him with the foulest profanity I ever heard. The chaplain—one of the finest, kindest men I ever knew—fled out of the cell block."

In putting Novak to death, Sain and his men followed their unit procedure. They strapped him into the chair and banged shut the switch.

Novak got 1,900 volts of electricity for five seconds and 900 volts for 55 seconds. Then they repeated the dosage of current, and the switch was pulled. Sain says that's more than enough electricity to kill any man.

Cancer Campaign Aided By Youth

Cancer—which attacks the young as well as the old—is being fought by the youth of northern Alberta in this year's campaign against cancer.

Campaign headquarters in Edmonton report that junior high school students of Elk Point have raised more than $136 by a canvass of homes and businesses in Elk Point. The students were directed by one of their teachers, Mr. J. Stuart.

On April 28, Boy Scouts in St. Albert organized a tag day as part of the cancer campaign. They brought in more than $28, helping to reach the objective of $50,000 which the Canadian Cancer Society hopes to raise this year in northern Alberta. On Saturday, May 6 the total had reached $18,743.66.

It should go much higher on May 15 and 16 when the Balley theatre in Camrose puts on two special shows to aid the cancer campaign. Mr. C. S. Bailey says half the net proceeds will go to the fund, and if the first shows are successful, he'll repeat the scheme later.

The country campaign, which opened officially April 17, is expected to swing into high gear now that roads are drying up and canvassers and workers can get around more freely.

Woman Drowned in 3 Feet of Water

LA CROSSE, Wis.—Mrs. George D. Sheire, 42, drowned in three feet of water when she tumbled off a catwalk across the flooded land near her home and was seized by an epileptic fit.

A newsboy, Tom Sebrank, found the victim. The family used the catwalk because the high water from the Mississippi river had isolated them from their home.

Newspaper Lauds Oil Boom

MINNEAPOLIS.—Front page headlines in the Minneapolis Star here this week are being devoted to stories on Alberta's oil boom. The Star sent two top reporters to Alberta to write on the oil boom. First day's headlines read "Oil Royalties Put Alberta in the Plush."

Jury System Said Not Obsolete

TORONTO.—Juries, in the opinion of a cross-section of informed Canadians, are an essential bulwark against prejudice, perjury, unfair prosecution and miscarriage of justice. That's how Financial Post readers dismiss the suggestion of a leading Canadian medico-legal expert that the jury system is out of date.

The general opinion is that with 12 intelligent, well-informed citizens on the job, mistakes are less likely to be made than if the burden of decision rests on one man alone. The expert's suggestion that juries are not always able to appraise technical evidence, is countered by the argument that jurors are usually well-informed on many subjects and when difficult angles are explained by a judge, are quite capable of coming to a reasonable conclusion.

Gandhi Memorial Pillar Erected

NEW DELHI.—The first of the Gandhi Memorial Pillars, to remind people of Mahatma Gandhi's teaching of peace and non-violence, has been erected at Agra, an ancient Indian city. It is a 25-foot-high structure of cement concrete with a life-size bust of Gandhi in marble on top.

Newspaper Readers Buy Legs for Boy

SEATTLE.—Readers of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer have bought a set of artificial legs for a small boy who lost his own under a train. The paper made no appeal for funds, but it was the medium through which the story of his plight was told. The paper acted as a repository for the more than $6,000 contributed by sympathetic readers for George Jodry, 9, who fell under the wheels of a moving box-car while playing.

Newspaperboy Makes News

Leonard Archambault, 15-year-old newsboy, was delivering "The Republican" on his route in Waterbury, Conn., recently when he spotted a man leaving a photo supplies store. It being 6:30 a.m., Leonard suspected the stranger might be a burglar because of the unusual haste in his walk and because he carried a bag under his arm.

The alert youth made mental notes of the man's appearance and jotted on paper his automobile license number as he drove away. Then he informed police of his suspicions about the mysterious-looking man.

A few hours later, after police had ruled out the description of the man throughout Connecticut, the man was picked up in New Haven. Identified as William Burzynski, ex-convict with a record for burglaries, the accused was found guilty of theft of $600 worth of photography equipment. The quick-witted newsboy was the principal witness before a Superior Court judge who sentenced Burzynski to two to four years in State Prison.

Antics in Legislature Denied By Social Creditor

OTTAWA.—Solon Low, Social Credit leader, twice in the commons Monday accused Joseph Dechene, Liberal member for Athabasca, of telling "an absolute falsehood."

He made the charge when Mr. Dechene, recalling the early days of the Social Credit movement in Alberta, reported events in the Alberta legislature when Joseph Unwin, Social Credit whip, resumed his seat after serving a jail term in connection with a document charging financial leaders with "strangling" the people.

When Mr. Unwin resumed his seat, said Mr. Dechene, there was a "snake dance" on the floor of the legislature led by the late Premier Aberhart.

At that point, Mr. Low rose on a point of order, and protested:

"The honorable member for solute falsehood because it did not happen as he suggests. I was in the house at the time."

Mr. Dechene: "I want to make it clear to the honorable gentleman that I am not taking back anything that I saw myself. I sat in the gallery when the snake dance took place."

Mr. Dechene: "I am not retracting one single word. If the honorable gentleman wishes to go further with this, I am ready to repeat it outside the house. I was present there and I saw what happened."

The incident rested there.

CIGARETTE FRAUD

All cigarettes are harmful, and much cigarette advertising is misleading. This is the finding of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission, which has taken action against the manufacturers of Camel and Old Gold cigarettes. The commission states that all cigarettes contain varying amounts of nicotine and throat irritants, and there is no reliable basis in fact for advertising claims that one brand is superior to another in these respects.

The commission also had before it a trial examiner's recommended decision that The American Tobacco Co., New York, be ordered to stop misrepresenting Lucky Strike cigarettes.

In finding that Camels and Old Golds—and the smoke from them—do not, as claimed, contain less nicotine than other leading brands, the commission pointed out that "the nicotine content of the smoke of a cigarette is in direct proportion to the nicotine content of the tobacco contained in the cigarette itself."

In view of this fact, it stated, the reason that the makers of Camels and Old Golds cannot truthfully claim a lower nicotine content is that the tobacco used by the manufacturers of all the leading cigarette brands contains "nicotine in substantially the same quantities and variations."

Similar findings were made with respect to the amount of throat irritants, such as tars and resins, in the leading brands of cigarettes. The smoke from all the leading brands of cigarettes, the commission said, contains throat irritants "in essentially the same quantities and degree."

Smoke Is Irritant

Concerning the effect of smoking on the throat, the commission said: "It may be . . . that a majority of individuals in normal good health with normal healthy throats can smoke cigarettes in moderation . . . without causing pathological indications of throat irritation." It noted parenthetically that "moderation" is a criterion "which varies with the individual" and that "what is normal for one person may be excessive for another."

In any event, it declared, medical witnesses were in agreement that cigarette smoke is an "irritant"—containing, as it does, the substances carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide, nicotine, ammonia and various aldehydes, including formaldehyde, tar and formal acid.

The commission found that the smoke from all the leading brands of cigarettes contains all these irritating substances "in essentially the same quantities and degree." And "being an irritant," the commission pointed out, "the smoke will irritate disordered throats," and "excessive smoking of any brand 'will irritate even throats in normal healthy condition.'"

The findings point out that a series of tests was made by the Food and Drug Administration, at the request of the commission, for the purpose of determining, among other things, the amounts of nicotine, tars and resins contained in the tobacco and smoke of a number of cigarettes of six of the largest selling brands.

"The results of these tests," according to the findings, "showed that the nicotine content of both the tobacco in and the smoke from the individual cigarettes involved in the tests varied greatly, both in actual weight and in percentage by weight of the cigarettes, not only as among the six different brands but also as among the individual cigarettes of the same brand."

Similar variations were reported with respect to the amount of tars and resins in the smoke of the cigarettes tested. The commission added that "the tars and resins in the smoke from all cigarettes have an irritating effect on the human body."

The findings add: "There is no known practical process" by which the nicotine, tars and resins in the tobacco leaf "may be removed or substantially reduced without at the same time denaturing the tobacco and rendering it unsatisfactory for use in the manufacture of cigarettes."

Advertising False

Accordingly, the commission condemned as deceptive the advertising claims that Old Golds or Camels contain less nicotine or throat irritants than other brands.

While noting that physiological effect upon an individual of a given amount of cigarette smoke depends in large measure upon a number of variable factors, the commission said the record showed "as a general proposition, that the smoking of cigarettes . . . in moderation by individuals not allergic nor hypersensitive to cigarette smoke who are accustomed to smoking and who are in normal good health, with no existing pathology of any of the bodily systems, is not appreciably harmful." It added:

"But what is normal for one person may be excessive for another, and excessive smoking is injurious in varying degrees to all of the bodily systems. Moreover, while in some cases if a person is accustomed to smoking cigarettes and becomes tense and nervous, the smoking of a cigarette may have a psychological tendency to relieve the tension and produce a quieting effect, the smoking of cigarettes will not under any condition be physiologically beneficial to any of the bodily systems. Nicotine is not a therapeutic agent for any purpose."

The commission branded as "clearly false and deceptive" such claims as those asserting that "smoking Camel cigarettes renews and restores bodily energy; creates and activates the extra energy needed."

There is in tobacco smoke "no constituent which could possibly create energy," the commission said, "and neither the respondent nor any of its witnesses seriously contend otherwise."

Even if advertisements relating to bodily energy claimed only that smoking Camels has the effect of temporarily releasing additional energy already present, as the Reynolds firm contended, the commission said that "being general in nature and without limitation or qualification," they were "misleading and erroneous."

Another Camel claim condemned as false was to the effect that an athlete can smoke as many Camels as he likes without affecting or impairing his physical condition.

"The record shows," said the commission, "that for one to smoke as many cigarettes 'as he likes' is to smoke to excess, and that smoking to excess, like eating or drinking to an excess, 'is harmful not only to an athlete but to others as well.' Smoking has an adverse effect upon the endurance and energy, the findings state, by causing an increase in pulse rate and a rise in blood pressure and by depriving the smoker of oxygen."

Couldn't Even Read

As to testimonials published by the Reynolds company, the findings point out that 43 Camel testimonials were called as witnesses. Their testimony at the hearings "establishes conclusively," the commission said, that with few, if any exceptions, quotations attributed to them in Camel advertisements were "deceptive and misleading."

"In the case of practically all," according to the findings, "it is apparent that the real motive inducing the signing of the testimonials was to obtain the consideration which they were to receive from the respondent for such testimonials."

In all the testimonials, the person "quoted" either stated categorically or necessarily implied that he or she was an exclusive Camel smoker. But on the witness stand, the findings show, some of them stated "that they did not smoke Camels exclusively but that they did not smoke cigarettes of any kind. Others whose testimonials showed them favoring Camels over all other brands testified that they could tell no difference between Camels and any other brand. The findings continue:

"Still others testified that the statements attributed to them were signed by them without even having been read, and that such statements did not represent testimonials' views or opinions."

"Some testified that they could not even read and that the contents of the testimonials were not read to them before they signed them."

In connection with Old Gold advertising, the Commission also found that the Lorillard corporation had misrepresented the contents of a Reader's Digest article entitled "Cigarette Ad Fact and Fiction." In advertising that tests referred to the article showed Old Golds to be the lowest in nicotine content and in throat-irritating tars and resins, the Lorillard firm omitted several "significant facts." The Commission said.

What the advertisements failed to reveal, according to the findings, was that the tests cited in the Reader's Digest article showed that the difference in amount and percentage of harmful substances in the tobacco and in the smoke of the cigarettes tested were insignificant and that the smoke from the Old Gold cigarettes tested was no less harmful than was the smoke from the six other brands of cigarettes tested.

FOR HEALTHY GROWTH

Vitamin D in some form should be taken every day, all year 'round, throughout the growing years. Although the sun's rays are a source of vitamin D, smoke, fog and dust prevent the ultra-violet rays from reaching the skin where they form vitamin D. This makes it necessary to ensure that vitamin D is added artificially to the child's diet in order that strong, healthy bones and teeth may be developed.

KEEPING EYES RIGHT

Reading habits have an important effect on a person's eyes. Continuous reading of small print is a common cause of eyestrain and poor lighting and incorrect posture frequently aggravate the condition. The lighting should be strong enough to produce comfortable seeing without glare or deep shadows. The light should be soft, even and pleasing.

THE ATTITUDE COUNTS

Your child's attitude towards food is an important factor in his early mental training. Attempts to force unwanted foods into a child against his will usually result only in frayed tempers and, if prolonged, a serious feeding problem. It's wiser to try to reach a compromise with your youngster in the matter of personal taste and adequate nutrition.

MEALTIME METHODS

"Something old, something new" is a good rule to follow in meal planning. You can often cater to both the conventional taste and the more adventurous spirit by including well-liked foods along with the new taste sensations. This combination will add variety and interest to your meals.

HOME SAFETY

Accident statistics show that the most dangerous place of all is the home. Accident hazards such as cluttered stairways, loose rugs, unsafe wiring and improperly-placed dangerous drugs abound in many homes. Make your home a safer place to live in by making sure the common trouble spots are eliminated.

SUMMER-TIME CARE

Special care should be taken of milk in the summer months. It should never be allowed to stand in the hot sun after the milkman has left it on the step. The bright sunlight and heat will destroy the riboflavin content of the milk and will encourage the growth of bacteria. Move the milk quickly to a cool, dark place.

ONLY ONE STEP

Discharge from a sanatorium is only one step in the direction of full, normal living for the tuberculosis patient. Close contact with the doctor and careful observance of a strict regime of food, rest and exercise is necessary for complete recovery. Convalescence is an important part of recovery from TB.

Letter to Louisa

Wife Says Husband Is Lacking in Affection

Dear Louisa:

I have a good husband who provides for me and is pleasant enough around the house but he is absolutely lacking in affection and is thoughtless rather than inconsiderate. A peek on the cheek three or four times a day is the limit of his demonstrativeness. He says he loves me and he never looks at another woman but he doesn't seem to look at me, either. I can't understand how one can love another and never give them a squeeze or a real kiss.

If we go to a party and the people are strange to me, my husband forgets all about me until time to go home. It never occurs to him to see if I am stranded or stuck with the same partner if we happen to be dancing. It is simply sink or swim by my own power, as far as he is concerned. If I mention it later, he will say that he thought I was having a good time and he didn't notice me with the same partner for six dances.

What do you think about this? Do you really think he loves me? We have been married only ten years and I hate to think about spending the rest of my life with a man who is so wrapped up in his own concerns that he lets me feel so alone.

"DISTRACTED"

Answer:

You probably have a very lonely road ahead of you. Distracted, unless you can get your husband to see what he is doing to you.

He sounds to me like an extrene egotist, who as you say, is so wrapped up in what he is saying and the impression he is making on other people, that he forgets to pay you the little courtesies that husbands pay their wives. His behavior at dances is really inexcusable. The first thing a boy learns at dancing school is to look after his partner and he certainly should be more thoughtful after marriage.

As for his lack of affection, I suppose some people are born affectionate and some are not but it seems that you would have discovered this trait before you were married. It is a pity when two people so different are married. Try being affectionate with him and perhaps he will develop this trait to some extent.

Blackmore Sees Liberty In Peril

OTTAWA.—The stoning of a Christian Brethren chapel at Shawinigan Falls on the night of April 12 by a mob estimated at 1,500 persons was described in the commons Monday by John Blackmore, SC, Lethbridge, as "a grave and portentous warning." Mr. Blackmore is of the Mormon faith. "The implications and repercussions of this occurrence will disturb the peace of mind of any person anxious to make provision for peace, order and good government in Canada in time to come," he warned.

He continued: "The Shawinigan Falls mobbing incident and all its implications will need to be borne in mind scrupulously by every provincial representative whose heavy responsibility it will be to meet next fall to assist in drafting a suitable revision of the British North America Act."

It was argued, Mr. Blackmore continued, that the federal government should intervene in behalf of religious freedom. He opposed such a view.

"Let me solemnly warn each of those tempted to that sort of thinking. Let me suggest that they reflect what might happen if some single organization of religious worshippers were to attain control at Ottawa, some organization that might not hesitate to use that power to the disadvantage of other religious organizations."

"The only hope of religious liberty for our Canadian children will and must lie in unchallengeable provincial discretion over matters of religion," he declared.

Of eighteen government members in the house at the time, seven were reading newspapers. One was writing a letter. Three were chatting together.

Mental ill-health is just as real and just as dangerous to the pa-

How many people to the gallon?

Many thousands of Canadians have a part in making a gallon of Esso available for your car.

About 12,000 of them are employed by Imperial. Some search for new oil fields; some move oil from producing fields to refineries where others make it into Esso and hundreds of other useful products; still others see to it that these are on hand wherever you want them.

Then there are almost 10,000 independent business men who, as Imperial dealers, supply you with our products.

And there are the many thousands of people who derive part of their livelihood from making and transporting the things that Imperial uses in its operations. Last year we bought equipment and supplies from more than 3,000 Canadian firms.

But those are not all.

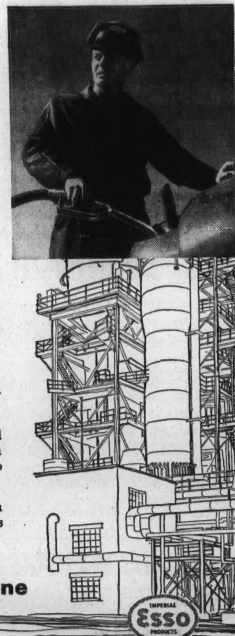

About 70,000 Canadian residents are shareholders in Imperial or owners of Imperial bonds.

And there are more thousands who have an investment in Imperial through their bank deposits or their insurance policies, because a number of Canada's banks and insurance companies have put some of their clients' money to work to help us do our job.

Finding oil and bringing it to you in the kind of products you need is a big job, a job that requires the skills and the savings of many thousands of Canadians.

Bringing you oil is a big job ... and a costly one

Baby Girls Receive Baptism Sunday

CROSSFIELD.—In the United Church on Sunday, May 14—Mothers' Day, little Vera Irene and Marilyn Ann, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moir, received baptism in the ceremonial conducted by Rev. W. Anderson of that church. The church was suitably decorated with spring flowers.

The Avanti Group of the W.A. held a well patronized bake sale, together with a few bazaar articles from which they realized a nice profit of $50.00 on Saturday, May 13.

The Happy Garden Club and its leader, Mrs. F. Laut, is doing a nice job of cleaning the church grounds and planting flowers. The W.A. hope to put up a suitable fence for protection.

Former Bank Clerk Safe On Farm

CROSSFIELD.—Andy Anderson, as we knew her whilst she was in the bank, is reported 50 miles away from the flooded area in Winnipeg, and she and her husband do not fear any of their farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Casey entertained at a delightful dinner bridge in their home on Saturday, May 6 at 6:30 p.m. After a sumptuous turkey dinner four tables of bridge were in play with Blake Stillings and Mrs. Lilley securing top scores and congratulations were handed to Mrs. McNaughton and Chas. Fox. The hostess served a delicious lunch at midnight. Everyone enjoyed the evening's entertainment to the utmost.

In Memoriam

Mr. Wilson Stafford and family wish to express their sincere thanks to their neighbors, friends and relatives, Rev. C. W. Anderson and the choir, and the McInnes and Holloway funeral home, for their consideration, cards of sympathy and floral tributes in their recent bereavement.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I have followed the birth and development of your local paper with avid interest.

May I enhance its value to some extent by the occasional contribution of some material that is both outspoken and unbiased, as well as of utilitarian nature?

It is of requisite importance that the secret of may anonymity be kept only to myself, even though editorial policy may regard this with disfavor.

Herewith is my non de plume, Most sincerely,
